

Privacy Policy

 BROKERAGEA

PRIVACY POLICY

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1. The Company obtains and collects general information from the Client upon his/her registration on the site. Gathering personal information and documents are included in the verification procedures.

1.2. While the Company may collect and store information, data, and other recordings related to its business, the Company has the right to refuse provision on any of its record information to the Client or any third party.

2. COMPLIANCE

2.1. The Company may disclose the information and record of the Client to authorized third parties or if it deems obligatory. All collected data and documentation are confidential and will not be sold, leased, or publicized. The Company complies with strict privacy laws and measures to protect the Clients' information.

2.2. If the Client intends to obtain any information of another Client, he/she must send the request with a valid explanation via email, subject to the Company's approval. Therefore, the Company has the right to refuse and reject any request regarding the provision of any corresponding client records.

2.3. All information and documentation are confidential, but the Company may still disclose all or some information to third-party affiliates if deemed necessary. Information may be disclosed if, but not limited when:

- It is mandatory to comply with a legal obligation.
- It is necessary to protect and defend the Company's workforce, properties, and other Clients.
- Such information is required to evaluate or investigate suspicious trading or financial activities.

2.4. The Company uses particular software and systems to secure all procedures and activities conducted within its property. The encrypted technology Secure Socket Layer ("SSL") is used, and additional security measures are imposed to protect the information collected on the official website.

2.5. Regardless of the Company's strict privacy and safety measures, the Client acknowledges that he/she should not expect that his/her information will be private at all times.

2.6. The Company uses cookies, which are files that allow the site to see how the Client navigates the web pages and accesses the websites. Information stored in cookies will remain private and not be distributed to any third party or affiliates unless deemed obligatory.

2.7. The Client may block cookies through the web browser he/she is using. However, some website functions may not work correctly. By continuing to use the site, the Client acknowledges the Company's usage of cookies.

BROKERAGEA.COM

BROKERAGEA

info@brokeragea.com